thank you

We are extremely grateful to our partners who made this Annual Report possible. Our sincere thanks to Lynn Crow Photography and Standard Press for their generous donations of photography services and printing, allowing us to report to you, our donors, the impact of your support.

Dear Friends,

We are so proud and truly humbled to present to you CURE Childhood Cancer's 2014-2015 Annual Report. You have made such a difference over the past twelve months with your incredible support. It is my great hope that in the pages of this report, you will realize what an impact you have made.

With your help, we awarded nearly $2.5 million in grants to support research initiatives all with the goal of improving survival for those battling childhood cancer. Funding was awarded to scientists at the Aflac Cancer and Blood Disorders Center of Children's Healthcare of Atlanta, Children's Hospital of Philadelphia, MD Anderson Cancer Center, Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center, Seattle Children's Hospital and Winship Cancer Institute. With these funds, the talented team of researchers tackled everything ranging from genetic testing and analysis to new drug therapies to survivorship issues. We funded clinical trials which are providing treatment options to children who otherwise would have none.

You also enabled us to provide crucial support to patients and their families. In total, our busy patient and family services team, with the help of dedicated volunteers, served lunch and dinner to more than 7,000 hospitalized patients, parents, siblings and nurses. They delivered 1102 brown bag lunches to parents of hospitalized children in Atlanta and Savannah, more than 856 snack bags to patients and families in Atlanta, Savannah, Augusta and Macon (twice as many as last year!) and 359 toiletry bags. We reached 235 families at the time of diagnosis with CURE totes, full of practical items and tips from other families who have walked the childhood cancer journey.

274 families received $119,522 in emergency financial assistance, and 39 families received $15,000 in transportation assistance from CURE.

We also hosted unforgettable holiday parties in both Atlanta and Savannah and matched 75 families needing holiday assistance with generous and compassionate donors wanting to help make the holidays special. In January, we held our largest ever Weekend of Hope and Healing for families who have lost children to cancer, and in March, we launched a new bereavement retreat called “Legacy of Love.”

Through all of our efforts, our ultimate goal is to cure a ruthless disease and help families through one of life’s most difficult trials. We can only do our work with the support of many, many people, organizations, groups and businesses. We are grateful you enable our work and grateful for the opportunity to be the instruments through which this important work is done. Thank you — with all our hearts — for giving so much to CURE.

With gratitude,

Kristin Connor

Executive Director

No One Believes More Than a Child.
EXCEPT A CHILD WITH CANCER.

Children fighting cancer have a spirit about them that is so heroic, it is humbling. Their optimism defies their realities, and sometimes even the odds against them. And it fills the rest of us with a zeal to help such innocent warriors.

From the day CURE was founded, we've had an unflinching faith that we would make a profound difference in the fate of children diagnosed with cancer. We've always believed, as a child with cancer would, that the hearts of humanity would be the true difference. We were right.

Funding for childhood cancer research depends almost entirely on donations from individuals, community groups, corporations and organizations. The generosity of the human spirit, the dollars and unwavering compassion, keep the lights glowing in the research labs and the flame burning in the doctors and scientists relentlessly seeking life-saving breakthroughs and advanced treatments for healthier survivors.

CURE is proud to share the past year's accomplishments. We want you, our generous donors, to see the significance of your investment in our work. We want you to meet three heroic children and their families who will surely inspire. These are the same kind of stories that inspired us into our very existence 40 years ago.

CHRISTOPHER

*“Beating Cancer is One Thing.
Making a Career Out of It is Extraordinary.”*

When cancer blindsided 16-year-old Christopher Dobson, this demon of a disease picked on the wrong young man. Christopher would go into the fight of his young life with no fear. Holding onto a steely, positive attitude — the weapon he would certainly need to survive.

Christopher was diagnosed with stage four Hodgkin’s Lymphoma in 2010. A grueling five-year journey began for the Dobson family. Christopher’s dad, Stuart, put his CPA career on hold to become primary caregiver, allowing his wife, Teresa, to hold her job which was providing medical insurance.

Christopher began his fight. An intense regimen of chemotherapy and radiation cleared the cancer. But only for seven months. Christopher relapsed, with the lymphoma invading his right lung. Now he would undergo a stem cell transplant at Children’s Healthcare of Atlanta. It is here where Christopher would discover the extraordinary thing — the career that life had in mind for him.

The stem cell transplant was brutal, but maybe destined. Christopher would become acutely aware of the medical saga that was going on during his weeks in the hospital. The difficult but precise procedures. The unending, vigilant bedside care. The life-guarding professionalism. He learned what his life’s work would be. A career in the medical field.

After he recovered from the grueling transplant, life for Christopher returned to a new normal. He graduated high school and attended Kennesaw State University to pursue a degree in nursing. “He was clean for 2 ½ years,” recalls Christopher’s dad. “But then, on his instincts, Christopher told his mom he had symptoms and needed a check-up. He was fully in control of his health. The boy had become a man.” A man with medical instincts. A CT scan showed a lemon-size tumor behind Christopher’s stomach. Another menacing relapse for the second time. Another stem cell transplant.

Christopher prevailed and beat cancer for the second time. He is on a mission to obtain his nursing degree and make a difference for others who will battle. As Christopher says, “I never feared what I was going through ... the relapses and negative things. I learned that a positive mindset does wonders for anyone ... as bad as it gets, tomorrow is a new day. Let’s tackle it head-on.”

These are the instincts that Christopher will bring to the bedsides and hearts of those whose journeys he will be guarding.

Critical Research You Helped CURE Fund in 2014-2015

CURE Childhood Cancer provided more than $2.5 million in childhood cancer research initiatives. We awarded grants to 20 distinguished researchers at the Aflac Cancer and Blood Disorders Center of Children's Healthcare of Atlanta, Children's Hospital of Philadelphia, MD Anderson Cancer Center, Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center, Seattle Children's Hospital and Winship Cancer Institute of Emory University.

CURE's Research Funding is Skillfully Guided by Our Scientific Advisory Council

The process is meticulous. Proposals submitted by researchers for funding undergo a stringent review by CURE's Scientific Advisory Council, comprised of scientists and clinicians. The council examines, discusses and scores each proposal for scientific merit and against CURE's research goals and priorities set by our Board of Directors — projects likely to have a clinical or therapeutic application within five years, getting to the child who needs it.

Highlights of the Vital Difference CURE's Funding is Making for Research Discoveries:

- In March 2015, doctors at the University of Texas MD Anderson Cancer Center began enrolling patients in a novel Phase I clinical trial called the NOAH Protocol. This is novel because it uses the patient's own immune system to target and kill cancer cells. The patient's "Natural Killer" cells are extracted from their own blood sample and manufactured into clinical grade, cancer-fighting free agent cells and injected directly into the tumor site on the patient's brain. Proudly funded in part by CURE, the study is potentially the first major breakthrough in pediatric cancer treatment in the past 20 years.
- CURE continued funding of a Phase 2 clinical trial relating to the prevention of acute Graft vs. Host Disease (GvHD). Hematopoietic stem cell transplantation (HSCT) remains the best chance for a cure for patients with high-risk leukemia and lymphoma. However, it is a treatment plagued with complications — GvHD is one of the most severe. Four years ago, CURE funded a Phase I clinical trial known as "The Abatacept Feasibility Trial." This was the first time the novel class of agents known as "costimulation blockade" agents were investigated for their ability to prevent GvHD. The feasibility trial was successfully completed and led to the Phase II trial. If successful, the use of abatacept will provide a readily available targeted approach to GvHD prevention, promising to improve the outcomes of children treated across the nation with HSCT. It's poised to make a major impact on pediatric cancer research throughout the world. Adults undergoing HSCT will also benefit.

- Brain tumors are the most common of the pediatric solid tumors, the majority of which are gliomas. With CURE's funding, three prominent researchers at the Aflac Cancer and Blood Disorders Center of Children's Healthcare of Atlanta began a Phase II study of PEG-Interferon (PI) as a potential treatment for patients with refractory and progressive low grade gliomas. It's the first study of its kind, and if successful, could prove to be a novel therapy for this patient population. Children are now being enrolled in this study and given this promising new treatment thanks to CURE's funding.
- Also at the Aflac Cancer Center, CURE funded a Phase I/II study of a drug combination in pediatric patients with refractory and progressive brain tumors for which there is no known cure. After initially starting with six children, and determining the drug combination is feasible, safe and effective, the trial has now been expanded to include additional patients. The progress is very promising.

These are merely examples of the impactful work CURE is funding and helping to advance. The wonderful reality is, our funding and its strategic placement really is making it possible for new treatments to get to children today. For some children, just in time.

Fellowships

For over a decade, CURE has funded pediatric oncology fellowships at Emory University School of Medicine. We have a proud interest in ensuring those selected for fellowships are trained to become excellent clinicians and independent investigators who making substantive contributions to research. This year, CURE continued to fund fellows who continue to impress—Dr. David Siegel and Dr. Jonathan Metts. We also funded a third, newly-endowed fellow.

“My mentors care deeply about teaching. It’s been a privilege to know them and the children and families affected by this disease. A supportive training environment is essential for continuing to provide high quality care in the future.”

- Dr. Jonathan Metts -
(The Sam Robb Fellow)

“It has been a pleasure to work with our multidisciplinary team. Beyond providing the best medical care possible, I learn to support our families socially and emotionally. This makes their difficult experiences a little easier.”

- Dr. David Siegel -

LAKE

“If There Ever Comes a Day When We Can’t Be Together, Keep Me in Your Heart, I Will Stay There Forever.”

— Winnie the Pooh

It is this fabled saying by Winnie the Pooh that reminds Lake Bozman’s mom, Anna, of her son’s inspiration and his immense impact in the brief but large life he lived.

Lake Bozman was the very heart of his family. And beyond. Lighting up everyone with his magnetic, disarming personality. He was about to turn six, a healthy, athletic boy-wonder, when the impossible happened. Lake was diagnosed with AML (acute myeloid leukemia) in May 2012. The day after Mother’s Day. Anna Bozman remembers, “It was shut-down shock. Everything became a blur for days. But we were a very tight family; everybody involved. My husband, Travis, kept working. Both grandmothers totally took care of Lake’s little brother, Trindon. And I became Lake’s inseparable caregiver.”

The protocol of treatment for Lake was four rounds of non-stop chemotherapy, each a tortuous month long. Lake, predictably, handled it like a grown man. He was so beyond his age. During his stay, Lake became the affable, big-hearted rock star of the hospital floor. He worked at the nurses’ station every chance he could. He didn’t want any down time. Life was waiting.

After chemotherapy, Lake’s health returned and the family settled into a “new normal.” Lake was back in school, playing baseball and basketball. And Anna was expecting a new baby. How positive a gesture from life. But the stalking menace of leukemia would test this family at its very heart.

In spring 2013, the cancer returned. While waiting for a bone marrow transplant for Lake, Anna gave birth to little sister, Cambree. Maybe she was a gift for this besieged family, as she was pretty much Lake’s baby. After Lake’s transplant, things were cautiously normal. But only for a short time.

Anna painfully recalls, “Heartbreakingly, and so unfairly, the cancer was back again. It was now considered incurable. No options for treatment. Experimental treatments at faraway places were very faint possibilities. Offering some added quality of life. But not quantity. We were asked to make decisions no parent should have to make. We decided to let our son, who was bigger than life, live his life to the fullest. Before returning to the God who loved him even more than we did.

We did just that. Lake did normal things and big things. He went back to school and played ball. He went to camp. We took our family beach trip. Lake was signed to a one-day contract to play basketball with the Atlanta Hawks. His secret dream. Lake, in his wonderful wisdom, accepted God’s plan for his life. And he honestly made me a stronger and better person in my life. I love and thank him so.”

Lake Bozman left us on May 1. To play for the angels. A higher league.

Families Who Have a Child With Cancer Have Us.

When a child is diagnosed with cancer, the devastation to the entire family is unimaginable. CURE's Patient and Family Services programs are crisis-oriented. We respond quickly and appropriately to each family's pressing and ongoing needs with compassionate, practical and tangible help.

EARLY OUTREACH Families facing a diagnosis need to know they are not alone. It's why CURE believes so strongly in early outreach. We reach families as soon as possible after diagnosis. CURE Totes are given to families at diagnosis which include items the family will find particularly useful—including a tabbed binder which helps them know what information to collect and save and how best to keep it organized, and a booklet of tips written by parents who have experienced diagnosis and treatment. In 2014-2015, we delivered 235 CURE Totes to families facing a new diagnosis. CURE staff made hospital and clinic visits several times a week to connect with newly diagnosed patients and families, as well as those further along in treatment. Our staff and volunteers were there to serve lunches and dinners several times each week. The constant and reassuring presence of our CURE team is a healing comfort in a most trying time.

FAMILY EMERGENCY FUND In order to ease some of the devastating financial burdens a diagnosis of childhood cancer can cause, CURE provides emergency financial assistance to families in need. CURE staff work with hospital social workers to determine a family's eligibility for assistance and will pay vendors and service providers directly to help with such things as housing, utilities, out of pocket medical expenses and transportation costs. In 2014-2015, CURE assisted 274 families with assistance grants totaling $119,522.

"How do you thank someone? Nothing matters more than our little boy's recovery from cancer, yet our children need a roof over their heads, food, heat in the winter, a working vehicle to drive our son for his treatments, to get to the grocery store Amidst the heartache and terror of having a child treated for cancer these past five years, has come the realization that we are indeed never alone in this world, that there are so many people who truly care!"

"How do you thank someone? Do you describe the conversations you have with your children, 'see, no matter how difficult things get, God will always help us, through the hands of such kind people?' I don't know anything that could ever fully express how we feel. I guess you just say, from the deepest recesses of our hearts, THANK YOU! And God bless you." – From a mother's letter to CURE

"...While our families don't always think to send a note of thanks, please know the expression on their face says it all..."

- Hospital social worker - can add joy during a stressful time.”*

- Tiffany, CURE mom -

OPEN ARMS To help defray the overwhelming out of pocket expenses that come with lengthy hospital stays, and to provide families with much needed one-on-one support and fellowship, CURE staff and volunteers serve lunch each Tuesday and dinner each Thursday at the Scottish Rite and Egleston campuses of the Aflac Cancer and Blood Disorders Center of Children’s Healthcare of Atlanta and twice-weekly lunches to inpatient families at Children’s Memorial in Savannah. The meals give families welcomed opportunities to connect with other families sharing a similar journey. CURE staff and volunteers serve not only meals, but smiles, hugs, words of encouragement. And hope.

In Atlanta, we served dinner to 2,862 and lunch to 2,052 inpatient families. We served lunch to an additional 2,650 patients and family members in the Survivor Clinic. We delivered 1,102 Brown Bag lunches to patient caregivers also, to ensure they had food when needed. In Savannah, we served lunch to 301 inpatient families.

Also as part of our Open Arms programs, we deliver snack bags to families who may have unexpectedly long outpatient clinic visits or unexpected hospital admissions. Or perhaps when siblings have to come along and need a snack. In 2014-2015, we delivered 856 snack bags to families. We also delivered 359 toiletry bags.

“My family benefited from CURE when my daughter was in the hospital last year for more than 50 days going through a bone marrow transplant. There were days we were going through so much that to take a drive to get food or to even think about what to eat was stressful. Not to mention it was a financial stress to eat out. CURE helped relieve some of that stress! THANK YOU to everyone who gives to CURE! You would be surprised how a simple meal can add joy during a stressful time.” Tiffany, CURE mom

TRITT FAMILY TRANSPORTATION FUND The Ramie A. Tritt Family Foundation has been a generous supporter of CURE for years, making annual gifts to research. Three years ago, the Tritt family decided to expand their support to help families struggling with transporting their children to the hospital for treatment. “We wanted to alleviate transportation concerns for families and allow them to focus on the most important part, the health of their child,” explains Lorne Tritt. The fund provided help with car payments, gas cards, taxi vouchers, airfare and parking vouchers for families in need. In 2014-2015, 39 families received more than $15,000 in transportation assistance.

PARTNERS IN CARING COUNSELING PROGRAM CURE recognizes the stressful hardships that often result from having a child with cancer. And because of this, offers families of patients the opportunity to receive professional counseling by licensed professionals through The Summit Counseling Center and other select centers throughout Georgia. In 2014-2015, CURE provided 51 counseling sessions to families at minimal or no cost.

BEREAVEMENT CARE At CURE, we grieve the loss of each and every child who does not survive cancer. Our hearts ache to comfort families when the unthinkable happens. Each year, we host a weekend of Hope and Healing to provide families who have lost children the opportunity to come together to remember their children and receive tools to help them through their journeys of grief. In January 2015, 88 parents attended the weekend.

“It is always refreshing to spend quality time with people who have experienced the same pain as us — it’s reassuring to us that we are not on this journey alone, but that we will make it through.” –CURE Parent

In 2015, we launched Legacy of Love, a day-long retreat for families who are further along in their grief journeys. Sixteen families gathered for the inaugural retreat held at the Chattahoochee Nature Center in Roswell, Georgia to be with others in fellowship and celebrate and honor the lives of their children. “This is my one and only chance to be able to see and converse with my ‘extended family’ and no one judges what you have to say. I look forward to this day.” –CURE Parent

we are not on this journey alone, but that we will make it through.”*

- CURE Parent -

ANNIVERSARY CARDS We know that many parents who lose children to cancer fear their children will be forgotten. On the anniversary of a child's death, CURE sends personal cards to families, reminding them that their child will never be forgotten. We have become part of every family. In 2014-2015, we mailed 302 handwritten cards. We often hear from families saying how this small gesture is so reassuring to them.

COMFORT BASKETS When a child is nearing end of life, families sit in constant vigil at the child's bedside, unwilling or unable to leave the room. While we know we cannot ease the pain of these families, we do want to offer loving comfort. In these circumstances, we deliver CURE Comfort Baskets, filled with fresh fruit, snacks, gum, peppermints, coffee, tea, hot chocolate, coffee mugs, chapstick, lotions, soft tissue and other items which hopefully offer a small but caring comfort to the families. In 2014-2015, we delivered nine Comfort Baskets to families.

HOLIDAY ASSISTANCE The holidays are typically a time of joy, gifts and fellowship. But for families battling cancer, time and finances are constrained. For them, holidays take a back seat. This year, CURE hosted two holiday parties, in Atlanta and Savannah, for families of children who were diagnosed with cancer. Also, through the Holiday Angels program, generous individuals and companies “adopted” 75 CURE families and donated gifts for the families’ children. On Thanksgiving and Christmas Eve, children and families at Children’s Healthcare of Atlanta at Scottish Rite and Egleston were treated to delicious feasts provided by Copeland’s of New Orleans, Whole Foods of Briarcliff and Church’s Chicken. CURE staff, board members and volunteers graciously spent holiday time in the hospital, serving love to families.

The Faithful Support of Named Funds

Named Funds offer a way for friends, family members, neighbors, colleagues and others to commemorate a child who has battled cancer or an individual who has demonstrated a dedication to the field of pediatric cancer. In 2014-2015, CURE's Named Funds raised a remarkable $317,331. Named Funds are a critical source of funding for CURE's research initiatives and patient support programs. They also keep the battles of these children in the forefront of our minds and, in many instances, create a special, meaningful legacy.

THE CARLOS S. ALVARADO, M.D. PEDIATRIC CANCER RESEARCH FUND

This fund is named in honor of Dr. Carlos Alvarado, a dedicated pediatric oncologist who retired in 2009 after nearly three decades of service at Children's Healthcare of Atlanta. Dr. Alvarado skillfully and compassionately cared for children with cancer while also contributing significantly to a search for a cure through his research efforts. The Carlos S. Alvarado, M.D. Pediatric Research Fund has continued his work into the future by funding lifesaving research at the Aflac Cancer and Blood Disorders Center of Children's Healthcare of Atlanta.

THE TRENTON W. KINDRED RESEARCH FUND

This fund is named in honor of Trenton Kindred, diagnosed with stage IV neuroblastoma just after his first birthday. Trenton celebrated his 10th year as a survivor this spring. Believing a cure for neuroblastoma is possible in our lifetime, the Kindred family is dedicated to furthering research for other children. In 2014-2015, the Trenton Kindred Research Fund raised more than $59,428 to support neuroblastoma research, spearheaded by Dr. Kelly Goldsmith at the Aflac Cancer and Blood Disorders Center of Children's Healthcare of Atlanta.

THE SAM ROBB FUND

The Sam Robb Fund was created in 2007 to honor the life and legacy of Sam Robb, who lost his valiant fight with cancer on June 25, 2007. Sam's bravery, spirit and determination live on to inspire other pediatric cancer patients with his mantra, "Fightin' Till the Last Breath." Proceeds from The Sam Robb Fund were used to fund the Sam Robb Fellow at Emory University School of Medicine. The Fund also supports CURE's Open Arms Program, which was very meaningful when Sam was battling cancer. The Sam Robb Fund hosted golf and basketball tournaments, fun runs and other events to raise more than $106,893.

THE CATIE WILKINS MEMORIAL FUND

The Catie Wilkins Memorial Fund continues in memory of Catie Wilkins, who was diagnosed on her first birthday with pediatric brain cancer. She fought valiantly until a virus took her life at age 4. The Fund's primary purpose is to support clinical research for more effective and less toxic treatments for childhood cancers. The Catie Wilkins Fund raised money through two sold out "Sisters on a Journey" dinners held in remembrance of Catie's loving spirit and determination. With the $115,583 raised, the fund supported brain tumor research conducted at the Aflac Cancer and Blood Disorders Center of Children's Healthcare of Atlanta.

THE MADDIE BRISCOE RESEARCH FUND

In honor of Maddie Briscoe, the purpose of this fund is to support neuroblastoma research. In 2010, Maddie was diagnosed with stage IV, high-risk neuroblastoma, at age seven. Maddie's fighting spirit and courage inspired her and everyone. Maddie's fight rallied the Briscoe family to create this fund to raise money and hope for the many children and families who will encounter their own difficult journey with cancer. Hopefully, inspired by Maddie's determined survival. And the power of research.

THE WILL ABERNATHY MEMORIAL FUND

This fund honors the beautifully brave life of Will Abernathy, who lost his battle with stage IV neuroblastoma in July 2013, at age five. Will was two-and-a-half when he was diagnosed. His playful, perfect little life was starkly interrupted by emergency trips around the country for grueling treatments to save his life. Through it all, it was Will's beautiful spirit and winning attitude that could not be taken away by this disease. The Will Abernathy Memorial Fund raised $10,000 to support lifesaving research.

THE MELISSA STRONG FUND

Diagnosed with AML when she was only two years old, Melissa battled bravely before earning her angel wings on July 13, 2015 at the age of three. Wise well beyond her tender years, Melissa inspired the lives of many. She loved playing ponies, dancing, riding her bike, playing jokes and adored the company of her family. She loved to get dressed up, loved fashion and was smitten by shoes! Melissa's family is dedicated to finding a cure for childhood cancer, crusading forever in Melissa's honor and glowing memory.

THE BOWEN STORY FUND

The Bowen Story Fund was created in memory of Bo Story, diagnosed with medulloblastoma — a highly malignant brain cancer — at 23 months of age. Bo heroically endured an incomprehensible gauntlet of three major brain surgeries, three high-dose chemotherapy treatments, three stem-cell transplants and nine months of maintenance chemo. Bo did all of this while he dealt with posterior fossa syndrome, which caused paralysis of the left side of his face, crossed eyes and right side weakness of his body. Bo became known for his motto, "Be strong! Be BO Strong!" Bo passed away on August 15, 2011, a month shy of his fourth birthday. The Bowen Story Fund was created to help families fighting pediatric cancer the way the Story family was helped when Bo was fighting. The Fund supports CURE's Open Arms program, serving meals to hospitalized children and families. And it provides financial assistance to families who must travel 50 miles or more to receive treatment for a child, by supporting CURE's Family Emergency Fund.

THE CREEDLOVE FUND

Creed Campbell spent the first three months of his life in the hospital. The chronic health challenges that followed, one after another for five years, stymied doctors and wore heavily on Creed and his family. In 2010, Creed was diagnosed with MDS/ Monosomy 7, an acute bone marrow disease. Courageous Creed fought for two years while living his life to the fullest. And loving big. Creed earned his angel wings on April 15, 2012. The Creedlove Fund was started in his name, to give back by helping other families who struggle with the difficult and painful journey of childhood cancer.

KATE

“But Kate...Tiny, Courageous Kate. You Wouldn’t Have Guessed Poison Was Pumping Into Her Body to Save Her Life.

SHE WANTED TO LIVE.”

— Kate’s Mom

When we’re going through a bad time, or think life isn’t being fair to us — any of us — we should remember the Westbrook family. They are positively different. The emphasis on positive. The family lives on a large farm, with large responsibilities. And they have large hearts.

Elisabeth and Slade Westbrook have seven children, two of their own and four adopted children with Down Syndrome. They couldn’t be happier. The Westbrooks adopted little baby Kate when she was five months old. She brought a unique and exuberant joy with her as a gift. She was given a special family in return. Kate’s mom, Elisabeth says, “Our precious girl, my ‘Baby Cake,’ was living a beautiful new life.

Then just two weeks after her 1st birthday, she was diagnosed with Acute Myeloid Leukemia, not uncommon for children with Down Syndrome. We knew God’s plans for Kate were mighty and He would use her in a big way. But cancer!?! That ugly word. We’d have to cling to the Almighty Healer and trust Him.”

While Kate began the gauntlet of tests and treatment, help started pouring in for this courageous family. Life at home would be hard and unfair. Cancer steals from everyone in the family. Kate’s dad, Slade, ran his business as best he could. The older girls cared for siblings, cooked, cleaned, ran errands, continued home schooling and supported and bolstered each other’s feelings. Elisabeth, as caregiver, and “Baby Cake” would begin a seven month battle and the irony of Kate “growing up” in a hospital room.

Elisabeth remembers, “We made her hospital room her bedroom. Art on the walls, pads on the floor. Kate literally learned how to crawl, walk and talk in the hospital. Chemotherapy came continuously and harshly. Up to 168 hours straight. But Kate ... oh, Kate. This little love says, ‘Bring it on!’ She was so determined to live. God healed Kate and is healing each of us in our family from the effects of this horrid cancer. He knew about this from the beginning and has prepared the path.”

“Leukemia was part of our faith journey,” says Elisabeth. “There were days when we wondered where God was. But He was there always. He sent others to pray for us when we were too weary. He was there when we got the news that Kate had cancer; and when we heard she was in remission. He was there to send Lisa from CURE. She and her smile and much needed hugs became a light for me in Kate’s darkest days. The care CURE gives is a Godsend.

For a time, we thought Kate was ours. But she is His. We have been given this humbling gift of being her earthly parents. Thank you for Kate’s life and for choosing us.”

CURE's Signature Events Raise Awareness and Donations

THE SECOND ANNUAL BELIEVE BALL

It's hard to imagine outdoing last year's inaugural event, but it happened. Another sold-out crowd of nearly 650 guests gathered at The St. Regis in Buckhead on May 16, 2015 to honor retired news anchor, Jill Becker, for her tireless fight against childhood cancer. Chaired by Sylvia and Pat Tylka and Chris and Tom Glavine, the Believe Ball raised a staggering $890,000 to fund childhood cancer research and provide impactful support to patients and families.

The elegant Believe Ball was both glamorous and purposeful. Jaye Watson, 11Alive news anchor, served as event emcee and narrated a touching—and hilarious—video about honoree Jill Becker, who is extremely dedicated to helping children with cancer since her own son was diagnosed more than 20 years ago. CURE also recognized 11Alive for its significant partnership which has spanned many years. John Deushane, President and General Manager, accepted the award on behalf of the network.

After a moving video featuring survivors Elena and Olivia Tate and Chip Madren and patient Mary Elizabeth Paris (sadly, Mary Elizabeth died in September 2015), the children were welcomed to the stage to a standing ovation, as tearful guests honored the children for their courage and inspiration. “Having the children with us was the highlight of the evening for everyone,” remarked CURE Executive Director, Kristin Connor. “They ARE who we are helping, what we are working for ... cures and more tolerable treatments for all children with cancer. They left a lasting imprint on every person in that room.”

Honoree Jill Becker agreed, “The Believe Ball is a wonderful event, raising so much money to end childhood cancer. Seeing our CURE kids on stage inspired me and every person in the room to do everything to help the children battling this disease and stop cancer from claiming the lives of children in the future.”

A TRIBUTE TO OUR QUIET HEROES

On Saturday, September 26, 2015, the largest crowd in Quiet Heroes history came together at the InterContinental Hotel in Buckhead for the event's 10th anniversary. Originally conceived as an intimate luncheon to provide our "quiet heroes" with a day of respite from selflessly caring for their sick children, over ten years, the event has honored nearly 2,000 mothers of children with cancer and raised more than $3 million for pediatric cancer research.

Hosted by Chris Glavine, wife of MLB Hall of Fame pitcher Tom Glavine, this year's Quiet Heroes was the highest grossing ever, raising $430,000 to support pediatric cancer patients and their families and fund research at hospitals across the country. "We were simply blown away by the support for Quiet Heroes this year. From the record number of attendees, to the generosity of our sponsors, to Chris's endless passion and leadership, to our board members, staff and volunteers, everyone made the 240 mothers in the room feel loved and supported in our fight to find a cure for their children and put an end to pediatric cancers," said Kristin Connor, CURE's Executive Director.

Five survivors — Kennedy Cobble (22), Elena Tate (15), Joshua Mack (11), Will Wagner (10), and Sarah Barr (18) — shared how their mothers helped them along their journey. From endless doctors appointments and clinic visits, to days, weeks and sometimes months spent sleeping on uncomfortable hospital sofas, to being their children's biggest advocates, turning over every stone in search of the best treatment options, these mothers remain their children's ultimate heroes for all time.

A mother who lost her daughter and attended for the first time wrote, "I am so grateful that I could be Summer's mom and that I could be there for her fiercely in every way I could. Like all the other mothers in the room, I never pulled up and never slowed down, and I stayed by Summer's side until she drew her last breath. The words of those kids spoke to me and helped me. I truly thank you for honoring us mothers. It means a lot."

LAUREN'S RUN AND THE CURE CHILDHOOD CANCER ANNUAL PICNIC

More than 2,700 walkers, runners and supporters came out on a sunny Sunday the last weekend in April for Lauren's Run and the CURE Picnic. The event, which was started in 1992 in memory of Atlanta toddler Lauren Zagoria and also continued in memory of Lauren Kochman, has incredibly doubled in size in just two years and raised nearly $4 million for pediatric cancer research since its inception.

"We are humbled and thrilled that in our 21st year, we had the highest number of attendees and raised the most money ever in one day, while giving Laurens' and so many other families the opportunity for fellowship and healing. The $300,000 raised provides critical funding for lifesaving pediatric cancer research so that, one day, within my lifetime, no other families will have to go through the devastating loss of a child," says Kristin Connor.

Lauren's Run and the CURE Picnic gives families an opportunity to meet and bond with others going through the same journey. This was a day away from hospitals and treatments. A sunny day filled with fun and food, laughter and hugs. As it should be.

"It's really special to see a large group rally around a family that has a child with cancer; the event means a lot to our family."

CURE'S KIDS CONQUER CANCER ONE DAY AT A TIME

CURE's Kids is a unique program to augment National Childhood Cancer Awareness Month. Through CURE's Kids, we give our young cancer patients a voice; we tell their courageous stories and honor and remember them. Each day in September 2014, for 30 straight days, we shared the stories of two or three featured children and asked the community to honor these brave warriors with their donations. More than $270,000 was raised as a result of the month-long initiative. Our heroic, young warriors touched hearts and inspired people to get involved and make a difference in the crusade against a terrible disease that impairs the health and takes the lives of our children.

THE MORE THE AWARENESS

the sooner the cure

When a child goes missing in this country, the word spreads. There is a collective concern for the child's survival. As though the child belonged to all of us.

Every day in this country, nearly 50 children are diagnosed with cancer. Every day! They go missing, in effect, from their normal, safe lives. One out of five of them will not survive. Because research to treat childhood cancers is seriously underfunded. And too few of us will be aware of this unconscionable situation.

CURE continues to be a voice that raises awareness, that generates the critical donations we depend on almost entirely to fund childhood cancer research. Our voice is working. But it's not enough. We need the voices in every home, every neighborhood, workplace, on the phone, bus, airplane, social media, at church, cocktail parties, ball games. At every opportunity. To help spread the word.

It starts in the heart. When the heart is aware, collectively, there is nothing we can't overcome. No missing child to cancer, that we can't bring back. To live the life they were given.

CURE Childhood Cancer is grateful for all of our donors and we strive to list your names clearly and accurately. Please forgive any unintended errors. To correct your listing, please email Paula Collins at paula@curechildhoodcancer.org.
